

Mardi Gras Casino to develop Fountain property

BY TRACI BONNEY
Mardi Gras Casino Corporation intends to blend into the scenery (so to speak), according to its president, Marlon Torgeson.

At a Tuesday Bay St. Louis city council workshop meeting, Torgeson addressed the council, mayor and a handful of local residents and business owners. He said Mardi Gras Casino Corp. owns the Pete Fountain property at the foot of the Hwy.

90 bay bridge, and intends to develop that area into a facility "that fits into the whole atmosphere of the city."

Plans for the site include a casino, restaurant and hotel. Torgeson said the company may use a "modular" style of construction, which is comprised of three or four boats joined together.

"That doesn't mean we'll have 1,200 feet of boat out in the bay," he stated, explaining that the boats would be joined side by side, not end to end.

Engineers are looking at plans for the facility at present, he said.

As with any proposed facility in Mississippi, Mardi Gras Casino Corp.'s venture cannot be started until it is licensed. No licenses will be issued until the State Gaming Commission is staffed, has an executive director and has established its guidelines, according to interim executive director Lester Herrington.

Torgeson told those in attendance he was 46 years old and years. He said he has three casino licenses in Deadwood, S.D., where he operates three small adjoining casinos.

"Pier, property improvements, floating restaurant and casino, and parking — is expected to cost about $26.6 million."

had beer, in the casino, restaurant and liquor businesses for 25

He also has a gaming operation in Minnesota, where he is in the process of building a 500-unit hotel, he said.

In answer to a question about security measures, he said his casinos have full camera systems, as well as fully-manned security forces.

Council chairman Charles Scianna asked Torgeson if his company has conducted a study on the feasibility and possible success or failure of a gaming

Mabus: Public must hold politicians to promises

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
The Sea Coast Echo had a rare opportunity last Thursday when Governor Ray Mabus, taking time from his schedule, agreed to an in-house interview by Echo staff members. Mabus supports a view that the public needs to hold a candidate to promises made prior to an election.

"You have to run on specific things, and you've got to try to itation as a means of curbing excessive power in government saying, "You ought to have fresh ideas in government."

"If you are not going to get it done in eight years, you probably won't get it done."

extensive issue discussed during the interview with the governor. He spoke of various means, presently overlooked, by which education might be funded.

"I agree you shouldn't throw money (into education), just money alone doesn't do it.

"From the first, pay what you need to for education, pre-school to graduate school. Don't forget about the community colleges. Don't forget about the universities."

"We (the state) do it exactly backwards.

"Spend what you need to (on education) and then look at everything else."

"Education is always the last thing (to be funded)."

Port and Harbor to pave airport entrance to 603

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission members agreed Monday to pay for the asphalt of the entrance turn-ins from Hwy. 603 to the air park.

The heavily traveled turn-ins are full of potholes and have been the source of many complaints from Hancock County residents who travel the road daily to and from Hancock High School and Vo-Tech.

Commission director Harold "Buz" Olsen presented a request from the board of supervisors asking that the commission include the cost of asphalt of the entrance turn-in from Hwy. 603 with the previously agreed to Road "E" work.

Road "E" divides the Hancock High school and Vo-Tech complexes at Stennis Air Park. The county and the commission had agreed several months ago to share the cost of completing the road, in exchange for the county to take over the maintenance of the road.

Olsen also reported that the county had completed the base preparation of Road "E", as agreed, and was now ready to proceed with the asphalt.

The commission was told that the county wanted to supervise the completion of road "E". The commission agreed to turn over all the advertisement and bid procedures for the asphalt to the board of supervisors. When the job is completed, the commission's only responsibility will be to pay the asphalt cost.

Commission members questioned as to who was responsible for the repairs needed at the Hwy. 603 entrance.

Commissioner Dave McDonald stated that he researched records showing that the road into the air park from Hwy. 603 belonged to the county and was not the responsibility of the commission.

The question of the state repairing the turn-in while widening Hwy. 603 was raised, and dismissed, when it was laughingly said, "That will be years."

Olsen, raising his brows in question, directed the commission back to the subject of whether to help the county with the turn-in section or not.

Commission Pete Beebe said, "Out of the goodness of our hearts, we're going to do that for Hancock County" with the understanding that "this is a one time deal."

Olsen explained county engineer Larry Seal recommended

Gulfview fountains out of use as water lines are chlorinated

BY TRACI BONNEY
Water fountains at Gulfview Elementary School are temporarily off-limits to students and faculty because the school's water lines are being chlorinated, according to Hancock County school district water operator Zoe Bretzius-Bowers.

Bretzius-Bowers said she was contacted about two months ago to be the district's water operator. She started the job in April and when the State Health Department ruled that the April water sample for Gulfview wasn't clear, she decided to superchlorinate the school's water lines.

"Sometimes the line just needs to be flushed," she explained.

She notified the district and the school of her intention to chlorinate the water May 9, and asked that the school replace its drinking water with bottled water.

"I closed the fountains just so the kids wouldn't have to taste the chlorine in their water and be uncomfortable about it," she said.

Thunder in the air

Air show to recreate Vietcong battle

BY T. H. "DOC" TOUPS
The black pajama-clad Vietcong cadre slipped through the bush, just outside the airport's perimeter. This reconnaissance party had been ordered to observe activity at the airport and report to their superiors without being seen or otherwise arousing suspicions.

The cadre's leader and its political commissar now saw a juicy target which made them reconsider their instructions.

An American C-130 sat on the tarmac and to their experienced eyes, this was obviously a command and control aircraft of some sort.

These planes, stuffed with the most advanced electronic communication and detection equipment, represented a dangerous and evil force to the team. The more knowledgeable amongst them realized that this airplane represented an even greater threat than the C-47 gunships which the Americans called "Puff The Magic Dragon."

The gunships were bad enough, able to bring destruction to an area the size of a football field in seconds. These bigger monsters could control much more horrible forces.

The team leader tapped

Waveland Little League equipment stolen

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Bernard Tusa reported to the Waveland mayor and board Tuesday the theft of approximately $1,000 in equipment from the little league storage room.

"It happened the last Friday in April," stated Tusa.

"They took full catcher's gear, bats, gloves, balls," described Tusa. "All the big kids' equipment."

Tusa asked the board if they could help the little league financially to recoup the loss. Mayor Stella Frilot told the board and Tusa that unfortunately the deductible on the city's insurance at the park was $1,000.

Tusa said the little league raised its money from registration fees and sponsor contributions.

In order to help in the cost of the equipment replacement, they are planning a candy drive.

Mabus explained that through the Education Reform Act, two taxes have generated more than a billion dollars. Of that amount, he claimed $450 million has gone to education and the balance has gone into running government.

"And yet, we were told that that (money) was going to education."

Mabus passed on some good news when he said the BEST Program, which was passed by the legislature last year, will be funded this coming year.

The BEST Program, according to Mabus, contains 50 programs to improve the quality of education, adding, "More than half do not cost a thing."

"Things like the discipline parts. Taking away a driver's license if you drop out of school."

"Other things are very low cost."

"It is a very cheap program overall. It would cost about $30 million in the first year."

"That's in a budget of $2 billion general fund, $5 billion overall."

"And all the money, just about all the money, goes out on incentives, based on accountability; based on schools getting better."

Mabus spoke of his support for the Writing to Read Program, of which Charles B. Murphy in Pearlinton and North Bay Elementary in Bay St. Louis are present recipients.

"It is the only lottery we have in Mississippi," Mabus stated.

"We divide up the state, I think in congressional districts, so we can make sure it (the program) is spread around the state, and then the schools submit applications."

"The first year, literally, (they) drew schools out of a hat."

"We will have one (Writing to Read station) in every elementary school in two years."

"We're half way there now."

Mabus described his support for the Writing to Read Program through the story of a five-year-old child.

"This child had every problem imaginable," said Mabus following a description of family troubles.

He joyously described the improvements noted in the child's behavior upon introduction to the world of self-expression allotted within the computer program. "His behavior improved dramatically," reported Mabus.

Education funding through a lottery is still a means Mabus openly supports.

"I still think people ought to get the right to vote on it."

"We are losing money to Florida right now, hand over fist. We are about to start losing money to Louisiana."

Mabus said there were other ways education could be funded besides a lottery.

"We came up with $70 million in non-tax revenues."

"Things like requiring 'real big' tax payers, people who owe more than $20,000 a month, to pay by wire transfer instead of by check. That would give us several million dollars in interest."

"We send our money out by wire transfer. These people already pay their federal taxes by wire transfer."

"You get it the same day as due you, and you get the interest."

He gave made suggestions for saving money.

"We charge $15 extra for personalized license plates. Each one costs us, with the paper work, about $35."

"We are subsidizing personalized car tags."

"Our forestry commission sells seedlings to timber growers for below cost."

"There are all sorts of ways, and those aren't tax increases. Those are things you ought to pay what it cost."

Editor and publisher Ellis Cuevas asked Mabus if the reorganization of state agencies resulted in the curtailing of any vital services previously available.

Mabus said, "To my knowledge, not only has reorganization not curtailed any vital services, but the peer committee said we have saved a million dollars and we are giving better services."

"Agencies are now reporting directly to me for the last three years and not asking for any extra money either."

Cuevas asked, in particular, about the job services offices which were closed temporarily in Hancock County.

Mabus said he was unhappy last year with the legislature. "They should have funded those offices."

"This year the legislature restored that funding."

Referring to the health care services Mabus said, "There are 90,000 more people than two and a half years ago on Medicaid. We had to make some budget cuts this year."

"I know we have a problem in Hancock County in that group of people who don't qualify for Medicaid and can't afford insurance."

"This is an American problem, not just a Mississippi one. We proposed two bills to help. The one passed this year was for pooling. An insurance pool for people with pre-existing illnesses which said the insurance companies had to insure them."

"We lost the one that would have developed a pilot program, based on federal money, to allow people in a group to pay on ability to pay, sliding scale."

Mabus assured Cuevas that every one of the health departments' critical services will remain operational.

When asked if tourism was to be better supported by the state in the future, Mabus told the story of how the MAP (Mississippi Advertising Program) was cut from the state budget.

"The past year, they cut out the $3 million ad program. Two million dollars were allocated for industrial advertisement and $1 million for tourism."

"That was too low. Louisiana spends a lot more than that. So does Alabama."

"Mac Holladay, in the Department of Economic Development, cut the budget and staff by 15 percent and sent back $300,000 to the legislature."

"So, as his reward for running a lean agency, they went in and cut his entire advertising budget."

"They tried to cut his staff. Absolutely, we need it. It was put in by our insistence."

Mabus said he could not answer, why some state officials neglect to recognize the Gulf Coast as a viable area of the state.

"I certainly recognize the coast, because in every election a big part of my victory margin has come out of this area."

Mabus was asked about his feelings on the effect of the ASRM (Advanced Solid Rocket Motor) testing scheduled to take place at Stennis Space Center.

He said, "The thing I have been waiting on is the final environmental impact statement."

"I'm not a scientist. I need some more information."

Mabus stated that according to his information a 'final' impact study had not been completed and until that time he would reserve judgement on the situation.

Mabus had to leave before any more questions could be presented. He was already late for his next meeting of the day.

Mabus appeared candid and open throughout the course of the interview. He willingly admitted that he did not know the state of the tidelands issue as it was the jurisdiction of the secretary of the state.

He did express a desire to see the idea of a constitutional convention revitalized.

"I pushed that in 1988. My main reason for doing a new constitution is that the 1890 constitution was never voted on by the people of the State of Mississippi."

"I think it's fair that every 100 years or so, we get a chance to vote (on it)."

Food Pantry celebrates five years of operation

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Through the combined efforts of many, the Hancock County Food Pantry has completed five years of operation.

During that time, the Food Pantry has helped 4,500 deserving families, which included some 15,000 individuals.

"The Food Pantry's only expense is the telephone bill. The organization is operated by some 62 volunteers, and that is what they are—volunteers," said Mrs. Ina Piazza, president.

The Food Pantry is open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to noon, in the rear of the Hancock County Courthouse.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors provides the Food Pantry with office space, along with help from Bobby Boudin, Civil Defense director; and Jay Marsh, fire marshal.

Area churches, businesses, individuals, F.E.M.A. and the United Way of Hancock County all provide money and food items necessary for the organization to continue to provide for needy people.

In October of each year there is a children's drive for food at the various schools. There are volunteers who help collect the items from the schools, such as Coast Electric Power Association employees. This is what makes one appreciate everyone's concern, Mrs. Piazza stated.

Area churches have special drives for donations to the Food Pantry.

Bourgeois authorized the substitution, and also had the cooking and hand-washing water replaced with bottled water and pre-moistened hand wipes.

The county health department was notified of the action May 10, according to department member John Pope.

Bretzius-Bowers said the bacteria detected in the water is coliform, which is the name of a large group of bacteria. She said no sewage had been detected in the water sample and there is no cross-connection of the sewerage and water lines.

The water lines are under constant monitoring by the water operator and her workers, she said, and she plans to lower the amount of chlorine in the water lines as soon as the Health Department notifies her that it has a clear sample of Gulfview water.

"We're on the phone with the people in Jackson daily, getting verbal reports even before the Health Department mails its results to us."

Bretzius-Bowers and Bourgeois, along with assistant superintendent Eddie Danzey, said their main concern has been for the students and faculty.

Bretzius-Bowers said another type of bacteria detected in several water samples is confluent growth. Confluent growth, she explained, is neither good nor bad and is common in water (especially well water), on human skin, in the air, "just about everywhere."

She said, "If it were in my well or your well, I'd say 'Drink the water.' But this is a school, and when you're dealing with other people's kids, you don't take any chances."

"I just want to be absolutely, positively sure the water is safe for the kids."

Bourgeois said Wednesday afternoon that the school continues to use bottled water and hand wipes. However, she added in answer to calls from parents, the commodes are still in use.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Sunday is the big day for the 12th Annual Beach Front Festival in Bay St. Louis.

The festival is sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Business Association and this year's is scheduled to be the largest ever.

Highlight on the entertainment scene will be Jo-El Sonnier of Louisiana, whose band plays a blend of music from Cajun to rock and in between.

Other scheduled entertainment will be Biloxi's U.S. Air Force Dixieland Band, Huey, Sherry and Company, Pat Murphy Band, John Fred and the Playboy Band, Night Shift, Southland Express, and Zigg Zagg.

There will be two stages with entertainment beginning at noon and ending at 6:30 p.m.

A repeat from last year will be the Children's Art Festival which is from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Peoples Federal parking lot on Main Street.

All types of goodies are planned for the youngsters under age 12.

New Orleans Saints quarterback John Fourcade is scheduled to be a special guest from noon until 2 p.m.

Beach Boulevard will be closed for the festival from 7 a.m. until dusk Sunday.

All types of foods and arts are to be on sale for the festival.

Members of the Bay St. Louis Business Association are hoping for a large turnout of spectators on Sunday.

It is hard to believe that the Hancock County Food Pantry has already been in operation for five years.

The organization has helped 4,500 families in need and all the work has been done by volunteers.

The operators of the Food Pantry are all volunteers, and they are really providing a needed service for our community.

So many in our community are really involved with the Food Pantry's operation, such as the churches, schools, businesses, and individuals, all who make contributions in one way or another.

The Food Pantry, too, is an agency of the United Way of Hancock County, so this adds a lot of folks helping.

It is estimated some 15,000 people have been helped by the Food Pantry in just five years, many of them children, and I am happy we have such a caring group in our county.

I want to thank everyone for caring for those in need.

The bragging I have been hearing lately is on how deep the water has been on a person's lawn when they cut their grass.

Some shoes have been lost in lawns and some folks have sunk up to their knees in mud and water while trying to cut their grass.

I cut mine Monday evening because I could wait no longer as the grass was beginning to get out of hand in height.

It has been a long time since my grass was so high.

It seemed half the people in town were trying to cut their grass Monday evening.

The thunder showers continue to come, and the crawfish mounds continue to grow.

On a brighter side, I am hoping the exceptional amount of rain will help increase the height of the water table for our area.

Waveland's problems will take time to solve

Dear Editor,

Mayor Stella Frilot of Waveland has been in office only six months, yet certain individuals seem to expect her to solve city problems that should have been taken care of years ago by other administrations.

If land was donated to the city in 1980, why didn't the former mayor make use of it and create a park?

When the property on Coleman Avenue was sold to the city, why didn't the owner or his real estate agent specify that the appliances were not included?

I sympathize with the people who have drainage problems; but this has been going on for years.

Let's give the mayor a chance, and if after four years nothing has been done, then you people who vote know what to do.

Like Charlie Brown, I sometimes wonder if Mayor Frilot doesn't think, "Why is everybody always picking on me?"

Gaming commission director said laws are 'state of art'

Dear Editor,

As one of the Hancock County Board members of the Crimestoppers of the Mississippi Gulf Coast and an associate of the Crime Prevention Association, on Monday, May 6, I attended the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission's Law Enforcement Appreciation Breakfast.

The featured speaker was Lester Harrington, interim director of the State Gaming Commission.

After hearing the Mississippi Gaming Act described as shoddy and careless legislation with loopholes for criminals to spread into our community, I was delighted to hear this professional administrator of laws, Lester Harrington, say in the course of his speech that the Mississippi laws and regulations were "state of the art."

This was no light statement carelessly made when you consider the audience. The federal law enforcement officials were in strong presence as were our local enforcement officers.

Harrington said the reason this law has its strength is due to the heavy influence of experienced gaming administrators such as the assistant attorney general of the State of Nevada.

He said the regulations being formulated now by the commission have like advisors.

This was not an atmosphere where a casual, unthoughtful remark of the strength of the law would have been passed. I believe Mr. Harrington chose those words, "state of the art" carefully.

I hope this information will relieve the minds of some of the Hancock County citizenry when they hear rumors to the contrary. A professional in speaking to the hardest audience to fool, said this is a "state of the art" law.

Please also remember that Crimestoppers pays cash for tips. Call 1-800-435-TIPS. Callers receive a number and call back to see if they receive a reward. We do not contact you and do not know how to contact you. You control the communications. For your reward you are paid cash in a secret location and you identify yourself by your number. Even the treasurer and board members never know your identity. Help us solve crimes!

Thank you,

Gambling vote result of our poor economy

To the Editor,

The basic cause for the affirmative vote for gambling in Hancock County was the deletion of jobs at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant.

The people, the workers, did not bring about the deletions. Speaking as a former engineer, they occurred because of poor management by a group from another state—to create an overrun of $200 million.

The vote by people (and I don't blame them) were those "running scared."

There is always a cause and runoff. The cause: the structuring and management of MSAAP (when other entities could absorb the requirements) and the runoff: The Gambling Issue.

Making progress to clean up Mississippi

The Mississippi Legislature, glacial in years past in moving on the environmental front, has taken significant action to pick up the pace in cleaning up Mississippi.

While most eyes were on the more visible issues of budget, taxation, redistricting and education in the 1991 session, legislators moved aggressively to strengthen the state's position on environmental issues.

The environmental cleanup may, in fact, be the most important action taken in the just-completed session.

Consider these mandates by the Legislature:

—A requirement that local governments provide solid waste collection and disposal services.

—A requirement that the state prepare a statewide non-hazardous solid waste management plan.

—A requirement that local governments prepare non-hazardous solid waste management plans.

—A requirement that the state create an Environmental Protection Trust Fund to provide grants to local and regional governmental bodies for the development of solid waste management plans.

—An extension of the moratorium on new, expanded solid waste facilities through July 1, 1992, with some exceptions based on local need.

Formulating environmental legislation can be a difficult task for legislators.

Bayou Caddy sets September as gaming start date

BY TRACI BONNEY
Concern for county growth and an intention to stay "for the long haul" were two points emphasized during a workshop meeting Tuesday between the officers of Bayou Caddy Inc. and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Bayou Caddy Inc. is the Mississippi corporation formed by Al Bishop, John Kingsbury and George Baxter, officers of Casino Investments Associates. While the three men have worked together for many years in the gaming industry in Las Vegas, they said they do not own a casino or have any affiliation with a Nevada operation.

Kingsbury and his colleagues plan to start Bayou Caddy Casino at Bayou Cadet in September if plans stay on schedule, they said. The planned 24-hour have rented a condominium in Waveland and moved into it. Kingsbury also said the company plans to promote most of its employees into managerial positions instead of importing them from Las Vegas or elsewhere. He explained that it is better for the company and also less expensive to promote from within than to move someone across the country.

At this time, the company doesn't have a detailed plan of its immediate future goals. However, a master plan has been formulated which gives an idea of those goals, Kingsbury said.

Bishop said the company is considering several ships for renovation to be used as a floating casino. Interior configuration, as well as exterior length and draft, are factors in the thing isn't rosy with gaming. There are going to be problems.

We want to work out those problems as we go," Baxter stated. "We don't want to run into the problems they have in Bay St. Louis. We know half your people voted for it (dockside gambling) and half voted against it."

Dockside gaming passed in Hancock County on December 4 by a vote of 4,246 to 4,004, with about 40 percent of the county's registered voters casting ballots.

Board president Ronald Cuevas told the men that state Sen. Vic Frankiewicz plans to amend a local and private bill passed for Bay St. Louis's benefit so that the bill will include the county as well. The bill allows Bay St. Louis to charge a $2.50/person boarding fee and a gaming machine/device tax of $100 a year.

Frankiewicz said Wednesday he intends to handle the matter with another local and private bill, which will require that the board of supervisors pass a resolution requesting the bill. He said he would prefer that it be a general bill which would apply throughout the state, but a local and private bill is the easier way to handle the issue. In addition, he said, local and private bills can be handled in any legislative session, including special sessions called by the governor.

"There will probably be the usual concern about it from gaming opponents in the Legislature, but with the precedent set by the Bay St. Louis bill, I don't expect there to be too much trouble," Frankiewicz commented.

a-day operation is expected to draw 90 percent of its employee base from Hancock County, according to Bishop.

On the other hand, he said, they don't expect to have much patronage from local residents. They hope to draw tourists into the area for the casino's clientele.

Bishop said the casino's promotional literature and advertising will center not on the casino itself, but on the county's assets as a tourist resort.

Kingsbury affirmed Bishop's comments and told the supervisors, "We are not investors or dirt-turners who are here to make a fast buck and leave. We're in it for the long haul."

He said Baxter will run the casino, and will do so as a resident of Hancock County. In fact, Baxter said he and his family selection of a vessel, he explained.

Baxter told the supervisors that Bayou Caddy Inc. plans to start its operation small and grow into the community. He said the casino will most likely start with slot machines, craps tables, roulette wheels, poker and "21" tables.

He said one of the company's primary concerns was parking for the facility. The site that has been leased provides two to 2 1/2 acres that can be used for that purpose.

Baxter commented that fact, along with others, helped influence the men to lease the land at Bayou Cadet.

One matter that influenced site selection is the current controversy in Bay St. Louis over dockside gaming.

"Contrary to what some of the proponents believe, every-

With younger citizens in mind, Bookends Book Store collects used books to be given to children who accompany their parents. Others provide crayolas and coloring books for the youngsters. One resident provided an air conditioner, while another contributed a heater for the Food Pantry's headquarters.

Piazza said, "It is definitely a community effort which has kept the Food Pantry going the past five years. The whole county needs a heartfelt Thank You for the support and love given to the Food Pantry."

ON PATROL

POSSESSION OF A CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE

Hancock County Metro Narcotics Task Force Agent Bill Pepperman reported Wednesday the Sunday arrest of a local resident on drug-related charges.

Pepperman said William Adams, 33, of Route 3 Box 492, Shoreline Park, was charged with possession of a controlled substance (Perocodan) after being arrested for DUI.

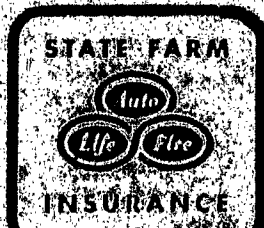

The DUI arrest stemmed from a one-vehicle accident on the Kiln-Waveland cutoff road about 10:25 p.m. May 12, Pepperman said. He explained that Hancock Deputy Gene Boswell made the arrest, then discovered the drugs on the scene and called task force officers to the scene.

Pepperman said Adams has been released on $5,000 bond. Agent Pepperman, who was at the accident scene directing traffic when the drugs were found, is in charge of the investigation. Task force director Glenn Strong is assisting.

his RPG-7 (rocket propelled grenade) man on the shoulder and nodded towards the target. With a sense of dread, the rocket man, nodded to his number two (who carried several extra missiles) and set off across the open expanse of the airport's well-tended fields.

This facility, in a secure area, would not be expecting an attack. Still, getting within range of the relatively crude but reliable rocket launcher, would not be given.

Sprinting across the light green vegetation, he cursed his black pajama uniform. In daylight, a green or mottled brown camouflage pattern would represent excellent life insurance.

The RPG men suddenly froze, as the drone of a light airplane crowded out the rush of the grass against their bare feet. Vietcong didn't have airplanes—light or otherwise.

The pair watched in horror as the light plane loosed two missiles which now streaked towards them. The number two, younger and less experienced, expected to be vaporized when the rockets landed.

Great plumes of smoke rose when they thudded into the ground... but nothing more. Amazed to still be alive, he grinned stupidly at his leader for support.

Number one had lived through this once before. He did not return the grin. Suddenly, the earth seemed to open up, as the airport's perimeter defenses began sending mortar and small arms fire in the direction of the smoke.

The RPG man saw his number two's lifeless body fall to the ground, still wearing its stupid grin. He turned and ran for the tree line.

He thought he had made at least 50 meters, when he heard the first jet's roar. The Americans who later examined his lifeless body, figured he'd managed to retreat about five yards. Beyond the tree line, battle raged as the VC sent up surface-to-air missiles against other U.S. warbirds which now began to attack.

You, dear Reader, are not reliving a distant Southeast Asian past. You are stepping into the future, a little over a week from now.

On the weekend of May 25-26, The Gulf Coast Air Race Association and Chapter 479 of The Experimental Aircraft Association will present their 1991 Airshow at Stennis International Airport.

A reenactment of a U.S./Vietcong battle, complete with authentic uniforms and weapons, will be one highlight of the show.

Other attractions scheduled will include performances by Association vintage and high performance aircraft.

Saints player Joel Hilgenberg will bring his T-28 trainer (which saw Vietnam era duty aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier Lexington) and which will be one of several represented.

Several 40s vintage T-6 trainers will be on hand, and the audience will be treated to a performance by the Royal Albanian Air Force in Exile—a comedy flying team with a Super Pitts S2B acrobatic airplane.

Ennie Argence, flying a Christian Eagle acrobatic biplane, is scheduled to treat the crowd to a display of sky high hi-jinks.

Marty Duke, owner of a Vietnam era 02 spotting plane will be on hand with several other 02 owners to participate in the battle reenactment and ground show.

This author recently flew with Marty, and his 02 is a neat light plane of the 'push-pull' configuration, with engines and propellers mounted fore and aft of the plane's hull.

All service branches are scheduled to be represented with some impressive performances by the U.S. Air Force in the works.

A USAF Combat Control Team is going to parachute in using HALO (high altitude low open) techniques and smoke streamers. These teams are jump qualified air controllers who set up in forward combat areas.

A C-130 Airborne Command and Control airplane and crew from Keesler will be on hand to provide a ground display, as well as A-10 Hogs—a close air support plane.

Other attractions scheduled are F-15 and F-16 fighters and various weapons displays.

No Gulf Coast event would be complete without food, and the organizers assure all that a crawfish boil will be part of the show, as well as other locally prepared foods.

Those wishing additional information are invited to contact Harold Doll, president of the Gulf Coast Air Race Association, at 467-7687.

Fricke is friend to senior citizens

Special to the Echo by Eve McDonald

Mrs. Leonie "Loney" Fricke was elected Senior Citizen of the Year at the Hancock County Senior Citizens Center in April.

She was honored at a fish fry at the Center on May 8. Loney has been living in Hancock County since 1942 when she and her husband, John (Buddy), returned to his home county. This city (New Orleans) gal learned to milk cows and raise chickens at this time. She also opened and ran a restaurant.

The couple has 12 children, who have provided her with 46 grandchildren, 44 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grand (so far). You would think that would keep a 77-year-old busy, but she finds time to help at the Center.

Most mornings find Loney calling in for the list of bus pickups for the Center. When she arrives, it's off to the kitchen to help her long-time friend Tee Oliver, the site manager. They fix morning snacks for the participants. She will often bring her own yard-fresh eggs to add to the snacks.

When the meals-on-wheels arrive, she is right there helping to prepare them for the volunteer drivers, and then helps serve the participants who come for lunch at the Center.

Whenever Mrs. Oliver is out, she and some of our other volunteers fill in for us. We can count on her. She will also cook up a pot of beans or some other goodie for an extra.

This lady has been a participant and a RSVP volunteer at the Center since 1977. She adds a lot of good will with her cheery smile and wonderful disposition. She never seems to be "down."

One of the favorite stories about her is about her children's friends. When they came to spend the night she would wake them up like she did her children—with a cup of hot coffee with milk. The children would then go home and ask their mothers why they didn't do like Mrs. Fricke. They liked that way of being awakened.

Is it any wonder that her family is so close to her and are such fine citizens? She set the loving example.

Leonie Fricke and Mayor Edward Favre

Tusa said the Waveland Little League has been plagued with rain delays since the opening of the season, as have all little leagues throughout the area, and now the equipment loss was an additional disappointment.

Tusa can be located any night of the week at the Elwood Bourgeois Park on Central and Waveland Avenues. If anyone cares to offer his support to the little league during this time of crisis, Tusa asks that they contact him.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Saffron, so popular with Spanish cooks, is rather an expensive spice, but you need use such a little bit of it to achieve that rich aroma and golden yellow color that it's fun to use saffron in special dishes.

But, stay that over-heavy seasoning hand; a small pinch of saffron does wonders for this chicken dish, but a heavy hand with the spice will give the dish a medicinal taste. So, start with the merest suggestion of saffron, and add a little more to your own taste as necessary.

Incidentally, you may use a little yellow food coloring instead of the more expensive saffron, if you wish, to give the dish that golden tinge, but, of course you won't have the saffron aroma or taste. This is an excellent way to use or "stretch" leftover chicken, as well as turkey or pork or shrimp. Here's:

SAFFRON CHICKEN PILAF
2 cups or a bit more of diced, cooked chicken
2 cups raw rice
2 Tbsp. oil
1 large onion, chopped
3 Tbsp. butter
3 cups broth or bouillon
Pinch of saffron
4 Tbsp. chopped fresh parsley
Small garlic clove, minced
Pepper, salt to taste
Saute the onion in the oil, add the raw rice and cook, over medium heat, stirring, until the rice toasts to a light brown. Meanwhile, heat the broth or bouillon to boiling.
Pour the broth or bouillon over the rice, add pepper and a bit of salt, if you're using it, along with the pinch of saffron and the garlic. Cover and cook over low heat for 15 minutes or so.

Add the diced chicken, stirring lightly, cover again and cook for 10 minutes more. Mix in the parsley and butter, fluffing the rice ever so gently. Pile nicely on a shallow platter or tray, and surround, if you wish, with broiled tomato halves and/or avocado slices. (Four servings)

At other times, you may wish to saute a cut-up fryer, and add the chicken pieces to the rice mixture after the chicken is done.

DOWN HOME

Beat the heat the natural way

Just as solar energy can heat your house in the winter, natural cooling methods can help keep your home cool in the summer. Air conditioning is a major expense in summer for many people.

For people who don't have air conditioners, knowledge of how to keep their house cool and comfortable in summer is even more important.

A good way to prevent the sunlight from heating the house is to keep it from going through the glass in the windows.

Shading screens cut down on the sunlight before it strikes the glass. This shading device works like regular screen, except it is made of tightly woven material.

If you have unshaded east or west windows you will find that the addition of sun screens will cut the heat gain through these windows by about 60 percent, lessen the air conditioning load and make your home more comfortable.

The Hancock County Extension office is conducting a workshop for making these sunscreens on Thursday, May 30 at 9 a.m. at the Coast Electric Crew Room.

Persons interested in making sunscreens or receiving more information, contact Darlene Underwood, 467-5456 at the County Extension Office. Registration deadline is May 16.

SENIOR CITIZENS HAPPENINGS

By Eve McDonald

LEONIE FRICKE DAY

Couldn't have chosen a better lady! We had several other nominees, but everyone was happy with the Center's choice.

We will be doing this every year for Senior Citizen Month and will then be able to honor some of the rest of our very special persons in May.

We are very excited about this new class that we are starting in cooperation with the Hancock County Historical Society, Bay St. Louis Care Center (the old hospital), and Cooperative Extension Service.

The class will be at the Care Center on Dunbar Avenue, across from North Bay Elementary School starting June 3 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Lunch will be available in the Care Center dining room after class. Reservations will help. Call 467-9292.

Charles Gray will be our first speaker/leader and you know how interesting he is. We plan to involve all of our interested senior citizens who have stories to tell or to listen to. We will sort out categories of stories and eventually put them in book form.

In November and December Mrs. Helen Mestayer will assist those who want to write their own "Life Story" for their children or for posterity. It sure would make an unusual and special Christmas gift.

FOR MEN ONLY

Another new class is starting at the Care Center Thursday, June 6 at 9:30 a.m.

Mr. John Rutherford will be the first speaker and he will talk about retirement. For someone as busy as "Big John" was, retirement was something to deal with. As you can imagine, retirement for him has been as busy as a full-time job.

Some of the programs we plan will be: June 8, Retirement; June 13, Volunteer Opportunities; June 20, Exercise Program; June 27, Prostate Cancer (Dr. Fred Carter).

This program is also targeting men who need to get out of the house one day a week, meet with their peers, get involved in the community, meet other men, form support for each other, and have a place to go. The Care Center will provide coffee and you men will provide the appreciation by attending and showing your support or interest. Dr. Fred Carter suggests that you place an order for this name for your program. (The dinner will be 467-9586, 467-7842 or 467-7140.

Farve Benefit dinner set

A benefit dinner to help defray expenses for the construction of the Dennis Farve residence on Keller Street, Bay St. Louis, will be Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the St. Rose de Lima cafeteria.

The dinner is sponsored by the Concerned Citizens Organization of Hancock County, with Geraldine Lang, Maurice Singleton and Ophelia Raboteau as co-chairmen.

The dinner will include red beans and rice and chicken for a donation of $3. Take-outs will be available. The Concerned Citizens Organization, with contractors, businesses and many community volunteers have constructed a new residence for the Farve family, and there is still a balance on some of the materials.

Lunch will also have a mini-dinner on Friday or Saturday, and at noon accepting orders. Mini-dinner will also be served and will be delivered within the area. To place an order, call the name for your program. (The dinner will be 467-9586, 467-7842 or 467-7140.

venture at the foot of the bay bridge. Scianna also asked what the area's "big drawing card" is in relation to dockside gaming.

Torgeson said he and his officers have personally analyzed the situation at the site and in the general area. He said he is really impressed with Hancock County, and listed as assets the large regional population base and the "excellent weather," which caused laughter throughout the room because of the recent heavy rains.

Scianna pointed out that New Orleans, about an hour away and considered by some to be an area which will give local gaming operations a large clientele, has the lowest per capita income of any large city in the United States. "That's not a big drawing card," he said.

Torgeson replied that Hancock County draws tourists. "We look at population, not per capita income. People will drive a day to gamble, and this is a good tourist area."

Council member Jim Thriftley asked what Mardi Gras Casino Corp. expects to spend with its initial investment. Torgeson said the first phase — pier, property improvements, floating restaurant and casino, and parking — is expected to cost about $26.6 million. This phase does not include the planned hotel.

When asked about the number of customers expected, Torgeson said a conservative estimate would be from 1,500 to 2,000 people per day, on an average. He also estimated hiring 1,000 employees for the facility.

No Idlewood lawsuit filed

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
During the Waveland City meeting on Tuesday, May 7, city attorney Lucien Gex handed a letter to each of the city officials from Biloxi attorney William Lee Guice III on behalf of county resident Jim Goudeau.

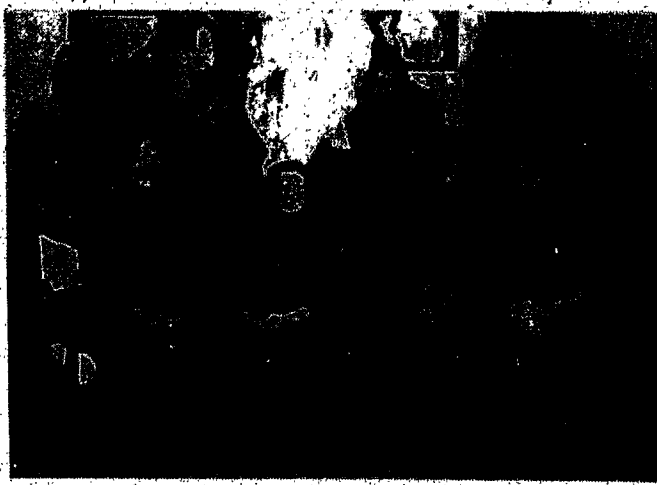

The City of Waveland recently constructed a barrier in the Idlewood Subdivision at the end of Yarborough Place. A few feet away is the city-county line, while on the other side of the line is private property where a road had been dug to meet with Yarborough Place.

The residents of Idlewood had requested the city to construct the barrier two months ago.

The city approved the barrier. Gex reported that the letter he received requested the barrier be removed. He wrote back saying the city would not remove the barrier.

"I have received four calls about a law suit," he added. "It is not a law suit, it is a letter."

Brooks earns three titles

Rocks place fourth in state team competition

St. Stanislaus senior Brian Brooks laid claim to state titles in the 3200, 1600 and 800 meter runs Friday in Jackson. In addition, his times of 9:39.3 in the 3200 and 4:27.9 in the 1600 registered as 4A state records.

Brooks' times in the 1600 and 3200 meter races are the best in the entire state this year.

With Gene Moran placing sixth in the high jump and Drew Scafield placing sixth in the 800 meter run, the Rock-A-Chaws compiled 32 points to place fourth as a team in the overall competition.

Brooks finished the day by placing first in the 800 meter run with a time of 1:59.3, a personal best.

St. Stanislaus Assistant Coach Andy Kivlan said, "Brian ran the best tactical race I have ever seen him run, maybe the best I have ever seen by a high school runner."

"The odds were against him going in since he had already run two hard races, and the others were fresh. But he ran smart and didn't let them out-kick him."

"He was challenged by three different people on the backstretch and held them off, the last one on the homestretch. It was a fitting ending to a remarkable year," said Kivlan.

Brooks remained undefeated his senior year.

In other action, Gene Moran showed some promise for the future by placing sixth in the high jump. Moran, a sophomore, gained valuable experience by simply qualifying for the state competition. Placing and scoring served to whet his appetite for future competition.

Freshman drew Scafield is also in the same boat. Scafield placed sixth in the 800 meter run and from all indications is

He played for Pearl River Junior College in 1939 and 1940, and was recruited by Mississippi Southern College (now USM). Upon completion of college, he played pro baseball in the minor leagues before beginning a 35 year coaching career.

USM's baseball park has been named in his honor, "Pete Taylor Park."

Lee-McNelis signs as MSU Lady Tiger coach

Former Hancock North Central girls' basketball star Joye Lee-McNelis recently was named head coach of the Memphis State University Lady Tigers.

Lee-McNelis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lee of Leetown, reigned as all-time leading scorer in HNC girls' basketball at her graduation in 1980. She went on to the University of Southern Mississippi, where she earned her bachelor of science and master's degrees in business education.

While at USM, she was a four-year starter for the Lady Eagles and scored 1,510 points, the third all-time high total at the university.

She also netted 305 assists, sixth best in the team's history, holds the career record for free throw percentage (.796; 320-402), and led her teams to an overall 73-38 record.

After serving two seasons as an assistant coach at Southwest Texas State University, Lee-McNelis worked five seasons as assistant coach at her alma mater.

At USM, she was largely responsible for recruiting and consistently recruited top-ranking classes.

She will begin her duties at Memphis State immediately, recruiting new players for this season's team. She said she plans to implement a running, full-court pressing style for the Lady Tigers.

"Within two years I hope we can get things back in the right direction," she commented on the team that has posted six victory seasons in the past two years. "We'll bring an exciting brand of basketball to Memphis."

CES players named to conference teams

For the first time in Coast Episcopal High School history, three girls on the Lady Raider basketball team were selected as All-Conference players.

Selected to the Southern Christian Conference's All-Conference first team were sophomore Megan Uram and freshman Miriam Salloum. Selected to the Southern Conference's All-Conference second team was freshman Brooke Shoultz.

Coach Kristin Townson said,

"I am extremely pleased with the girls' performance and improvement this year. They worked very hard and were dedicated to improving their basic skills and knowledge of the game."

Townson said, "Next year we will be much more competitive. All of the players from this year are returning, and with a year's experience, we will be a serious threat to everyone in the conference."

already looking forward to improving on this year's performance, said Kivlan.

Senior Galen Smith, injured earlier in the season, also competed but failed to score. His season performance however shows that he led the team in field event wins and points.

Head Coach Larry Ramsey was quite satisfied with his team's performance. "Anytime you go to a state track meet with four people and come away with fourth place, you have to be happy. Now that this year is over, we will have to start looking forward to next year. We will miss the seniors and their consistent performances, but I feel we have some excellent potential to carry on for them," said Ramsey.

Conscientious boaters, fishermen wanted

Are you a conscientious boater or fisherman? If you are, would you care to put it in writing?

The Bureau of Marine Resources is issuing boaters and fishermen a challenge to take a pledge to do their share in keeping our marine environment clean.

David Ruple, BMR marine debris coordinator, says the bureau's Boaters and Fishermen Pledge Program is designed to make people aware of the problems associated with marine debris and to get them involved in solving the problem. "Not only is marine debris an eyesore," Ruple said, "but it also kills birds, sea mammals and fish. Marine debris also fouls motors and nets. It may decrease the enjoyment of recreational fishermen and costs commercial fishermen time and money."

The pledge is a promise to stow all trash properly on board for disposal when the boat returns to dock—especially plastics, glass and metal; and pick up debris observed to be floating in the water for disposal on shore.

Boaters and fishermen wishing to participate in the pledge program should sign the pledge, fill out the registration form and mail the form to the BMR. After the form is submitted, the boater or fisherman will receive a colorful decal indicating their participation in the program.

The pledge form may be mailed to the Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources, 2620 Beach Blvd., Biloxi, MS 39531.

The program is co-sponsored by the Environmental Protection Agency Gulf of Mexico Program

Non-resident license fees increased

The Mississippi Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks has approved new non-resident license fees.

The new fee scale will bring non-resident licenses more in line with those of adjoining states.

Effective July 1, the non-resident all game hunting and fishing license will increase from $130 to $150. A five-day all game hunting license may still be purchased for $75.

In addition, a new archery/primitive weapon license will be issued for $30 a year.

This compares with $150 charged Mississippians in Arkansas and Tennessee, $175 charged in Alabama and $115 charged in Louisiana.

Bill Quisenberry, director of support services for the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks, said the fee increase will generate an estimated $400,000 a year in new revenue and will address the $3 million shortfall in the department's 1992 budget.

All other non-resident licenses fees remain the same.

They include:

Annual fishing: $20; 3-day fishing $6

Annual small game hunting: $50; 5-day small game $30

Commercial freshwater fishing: $200 plus $3 for each tag bought.

Trappers: $205, fur dealers $205

Shooting preserve: $12

State waterfowl stamp: $2

I pledge:

To transport to shore, for proper disposal, all trash generated aboard my boat, especially plastic, glass and metal;

To make every effort to prevent accidental loss of food and drink containers, fishing gear and other debris from my boat;

To retrieve, for proper disposal onshore, plastic refuse, cans, and other man-made debris I find floating in navigable water; and

To encourage fellow boaters and fishermen to

Take Pride in the Gulf of Mexico

Please check one for each category:

I use my boat primarily for:

- ☐ Recreational Fishing
☐ Pleasure Boating
☐ Commercial Fishing

Lifetime sportsman licenses available to non-residents

Several legislative changes in the Lifetime Sportsman License were approved by the Mississippi Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

Currently, only residents of Mississippi are eligible to buy a lifetime license. But effective July 1, 1991, lifetime licenses will be available to everyone.

Cost of a non-resident lifetime hunting/fishing license will be $3,000. A non-resident lifetime fishing license will cost $1,500.

For residents of Mississippi, lifetime license fees will be: Birth to two years, $200; over two years to 12 years, $300; and over 12 years, $500.

The golden lifetime license will continue to sell for $1,000.

The lifetime license program started in 1988. Since then 1,669 licenses have been sold and $605,900 deposited into the Wildlife Endowment fund. Interest generated from the fund is used to further the conservation of wildlife resources in Mississippi.

Wild turkey trapping featured on 'Outdoor'

Wild turkeys being trapped and relocated are featured on this week's "Mississippi Outdoors" at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, May 16, on Mississippi ETV. The program will be rebroadcast the following morning at 6:15 and again at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, May 18.

Host Melvin Tingle takes viewers to Jefferson Davis and Prentiss counties to see how landowners, biologists and conservation officers are working together in an effort to reestablish wild turkey populations throughout the state.

Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks biologist Bill Hamrick of Newton, MDWFP conservation officers Howard Parish of Carson and Harry Speights of Bassfield and Jefferson Davis County landowners Charlie Ramsay and Solon Polk will show how this cooperative effort is helping to give Mississippi wild turkeys new homes.

And on "Cooper's Corner," Martha Cooper of the Mississippi Natural Science Museum visits with Mike Stegall of Jackson, agrarist with the museum, for a look at snapping turtles.

Sea Grant, GCRL honor docents

The Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium and the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory hosted a recognition luncheon for marine education volunteers at Germantown.

The docents—trained volunteer instructors—teach as many as 500 students each week during the school year in the popular "Project Marine Discovery" field trip program sponsored jointly by Sea Grant and the lab at GCRL's Marine Education Center and Aquarium.

Project Marine Discovery for public and private school groups at kindergarten through 12th grade levels opened in September 1987 with programs two days each week during the school year.

The K-12 program has expanded to four days a week and Project Marine Discovery ABCs is offered on second and fourth Mondays for three- and four-year-old pre-school groups.

Local docents include Tonya Johnston of Bay St. Louis; Kay Barrett of Long Beach; and Dr. Shelia A. Brown of Pass Christian.

St. Jude Classic offers $50,000 to the winner

The Memphis Bass Club announces the 19th annual Goody's St. Jude's Bass Classic is set for Sunday, May 26 at Sardis Lake.

Due to the overwhelming response for last year's event, the field of contestants has been expanded to 350 boats for 1991.

The final deadline for entry is May 20, and the entry fee is set at $200 per boat. Entry forms can be obtained at area marine dealers and tackle retailers, or by calling 901-522-9733.

This year's purse will total over $50,000 in cash and prizes which includes the grand prize of a new ranger 364V Boat, Ranger Trailer and 150 H.P. Johnson motor. The grand prize will be a random drawing from the field of participants.

Beach Front Fest

A day of music, crafts, food and fun for the whole family

BY TRACI BONNEY
The 11th Annual Beach Front Festival set for this Sunday offers a smorgasbord of musical selections. The fest includes Dixieland, country, oldies and the fusion music of Jo-El Sonnier.

Sonnier, a Louisiana native, blends Cajun, country, rock, blues and optimism to create a unique sound.

Sonnier, who will end the day on the Beach Blvd./Court Street stage with an hour-long concert from 5:30 to 6:30, is just one of the eight performers that will provide the festival's musical entertainment. Also performing will be the U.S. Air Force Dixieland Band; Huey, Sherry and Company; the Pat Murphy Band; John Fred and The Playboy Band; Night Shift; Southland Express; and Zigg Zagg. The U.S. Air Force Dixieland Band is from Keesler Air Force Base, and Southland Express is from Slidell, La. The other four groups are from Bay St. Louis. Music is only one highlight of the Beach Front Festival. Food, arts and crafts, and sidewalk sales are featured as well. The Beach Front Festival is sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Business Association.

The festival will start at 11 a.m. and end at dusk. Admission is $2 for those from 13 to 59 years old. Admission is free for those 12 and under or 60 and over, as well as to all active duty military personnel with I.D.

Children's Art Festival features many activities

This year's Children's Art Festival, part of the Bay St. Louis Beach Front Festival May 19, will have at its special guest New Orleans Saint John Fourcade.

Fourcade will be on hand from noon to 2 p.m. in downtown Bay St. Louis at Peoples Federal parking lot on Main Street.

Children under age 12 will not be charged at the gates or at any booths within the CAF area. The idea of the festival is to introduce children to all the arts. It is a hands-on art experience.

In addition, each child is given a certificate with the city seal attesting that he is now an official artist.

Last year there were some 1,000 children who attended and painted, sculpted, enjoyed children's music, danced, listened to story tellers and attended a children's play.

This year's attractions include The Puppet Factory from Pensacola, Fla., 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.; clowns from the Mississippi Clown Guild, who will perform at various times during the day; dancer Leif Anderson at 11 a.m.; Christian singer Cherie Schadler at noon; Sharon Loiacano and classical dancers at 1 p.m.; a Taekwondo exhibit at 1:30; Washboard Leo at 2; United Footprints, Bay High School's improv group, at 4:15; storytellers at various times; a wildlife exhibit and a firetruck exhibit.

In addition, several booths and activity areas are planned, including marble painting; butterfly painting; t-shirt or paper painting (children will need to bring their own t-shirt); face painting; a hand print mural; fish printing; thumb or hand printing, at which certificates will be issued; a collage booth; clay and sculpture; finger painting; a baby tent; weaving; clothes pin art (butterfly making); and pasta art.

The Children's Art Festival is new, but with the help of the community, it will grow.

The festival is open to all children and is focused at the three- to 12-year age group. The only restriction is that children under the age of six must be accompanied by an adult. No babysitting services will be provided.

Mrs. Trashasaurus

Mrs. Leslie Stone's kindergarten class at North Bay Elementary created Mrs. Trashasaurus recently while studying dinosaurs and the environment. Mrs. Trashasaurus is made up of recyclable materials and is a culmination of the best and worst of both worlds (the past and present). North Bay principal Kim Stasny said the two study units, conducted in celebration of Earth Day, taught the children about why the dinosaurs became extinct, and that the same thing could happen to the present world's inhabitants if the environment is not properly preserved. Approximately 180 students, charter members of Jobs for Mississippi Graduates, competed in interviewing styles, public speaking skills and job-hunting strategies during the JAG Conference held at the Holiday Inn in Jackson April 12-14.

Bridget Gonzales, first place in decision making and first place in the state essay competition;

Lillian Moran, second place in decision making; and Anna Harmon, third place in the poster contest.

"You students in this program can make anything you want out of your life," Gov. Ray Mabus told them Friday. "I hope you will stay here after you graduate and find a job and help make Mississippi the best."

Hancock VICA takes two state awards

The Mississippi Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) is a student organization composed of young men and women enrolled in trade, industrial, technical and health education courses and is the only national organization whose purpose is to serve vocational students.

Members of the Pearl River Community College, Hancock County Vo-Tech Center, VICA Club won two awards at the State VICA Contest held recently in Tupelo.

Club members received one second place silver medal and one third place bronze medal. Melissa Ferrill won this place in the job interview contest.

Catahoula.

Jody Shaw and Peter Deijkers won third place in the brick-laying team contest. Shaw is a junior at Hancock High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Shaw of Crane Creek. Deijkers is a senior at Bay Senior High School and is the son of Thelma Son of Bay St. Louis.

Competing for the Hancock County Vo-Tech Center in other areas of competition were Ricky Coles, Angela Hurt, Tyron Ladner and Bert Rester.

Al Bourgeois, director of the Vo-Tech Center stated, "We are extremely proud of the outstanding accomplishments of this youth organization. We are especially proud that these students took time out from their spring break to compete in these events."

Bourgeois and the VICA Club members would also like to express their gratitude to Linda Ferrill, who accompanied the members as chaperon.

A black and white photograph showing a group of people, including children and adults, sitting on the steps of a building entrance. Above the entrance is a sign that reads "HANCOCK COUNTY". The image is grainy and high-contrast, with deep shadows and bright highlights. The people are dressed in casual clothing, and the overall scene suggests a public gathering or a moment of rest in a community setting.

A high-contrast, black and white photograph of a person in a dark room, possibly a laboratory or office, with a window in the background. The person is wearing a light-colored, possibly white, garment. The image is heavily stylized with high contrast, resulting in a loss of fine detail and a grainy, almost abstract quality. The person appears to be looking towards the camera or slightly to the side. The background shows a window with some light coming through, and there are some indistinct shapes that could be equipment or furniture. The overall mood is mysterious and somewhat unsettling due to the extreme contrast and lack of clear context.

Sixth grade students from Hancock North Central Elementary were treated to a morning of talks and tours by members of the Hancock Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force as part of their 'Meology' self-esteem training. They were taken through youth court, the courthouse and the justice facility for viewing of the places and procedures involved in law enforcement. Investigator Matt Karl spoke to the students in the board of supervisors meeting room about the effects of various drugs. How and why a young person first comes into contact with drugs was emphasized by Karl, while at the jail, the results of law breaking were shown: (Echo staff photo by Jacqui Cochran)
